Another option is to set a limit on the dollar amount your guests will consume in alcohol and spirits during your event. The bartender will keep track of your guests' consumption and notify you when the limit is reached. At that time you will have the option of either extending your limit, or switching over to a cash bar. You may also choose to do a consumption bar with no limit. The bartender will keep track of the alcohol consumed by your guests during the entire event, and you will be charged for the total amount.
